Golden Act Wins Louisiana Derby

NEW ORLEANS, March 18 (AP)-Jockey Sandy Hawley steered Golden Act through a jam on the backstretch, then brought his horse through a stirring stretch duel with Rivalero to win the $175,000 Louisiana Derby by 1¾ lengths today.

The winner's share was $100,750, bringing the California campaigner's earnings to $144,650 for the year and $271,970 for two years of racing.

Golden Act has been in the money in each of its 11 lifetime starts.

"He broke slow, but he always runs that way," said Hawley, a former national riding champion. "He likes to run from last.

"I was shuffled back by horses in the first turn, and I had nowhere to go, so I wheeled to the outside, and he made his move.

"I asked him to run a little bit, and he did. He's a fine horse." Rivalero, son of Kentucky Derby winner Riva Ridge, finished second.

U.S. Cup Team Thumps Chile, to Play Argentina

Monday, March 19, 1979

Stockton overpowered Alvaro Betancur, 6-1, 6-2, 7-5, to give the United States a 5-0 sweep of the North American zone Davis Cup finals against Colombia today.

THE WASHINGTON POST

Earlier, John McEnroe defeated Colombia's No. 1 player, Ivan Molina, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2.

The defending champion U.S. Davis Cup team dominated the five-match series so completely that Colombia didn't win a single set in the three-day competition and broke service only once, in the sixth game of the final

The U.S. will meet Argentina in September at Flushing Meadows in New York. The Argentines defeated Chile today in Buenos Aires to take the South American championship of the Davis Cup.

Argentina won the South American zone final, 3-2, today behind Jose Luis Clerc's 6-2, 6-1, 6-1 rout of Chile's Jaime Fillol.

Guillermo Vilas forfeited the day's second match to Chile's Hans Gildermeister when the match was called in the fifth set due to darkness. Vilas was booked on a flight to Costa Rica. He was leading 6-2, 1-6, 6-1, 7-5, 2-1, when the match was called.

In European cup competition, Italy defeated Denmark, 5-0, as Adriano Panatta crushed Carl Edward Hedelung. 6-0, 6-3, 6-1, and Corrado Barazutti Fromholtz, 22, got off to a 1-0 start and easily won the first set, breaking Barker's serve in the fourth and eighth games.

In doubles, Kerry Reid and Wendy Turnbull defeated Barker and Ann Kiymura, 6-4, 6-2. Turnbull took third in singles after Wade defaulted be-

Bairds Win Platform Tennis

By Vicky Moon

Brothers Chip and Steve Baird upset top-seeded Clark Graebner and Doug Russell, 2-6, 7-5, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4, in the finals of the $13,680 Passport Grand Prix of platform tennis yesterday at Columbia Country Club.

The Graebner-Russell duo led 5-1 in the second set before the Bairds came on to take the next six games and win the set, 7-5.

Their victory marked the second consecutive year the brothers, who grew up in the Washington area, have won the local tourney Their father, Charles F. Baird; who now lives in New Jersey, is the current 55-and-over national platform tennis champion and still maintains his membership at Chevy Chase Country Club.

"We kept telling ourselves to think we could beat them," said Chip, 26, a management consultant in Boston. "Each time we were down I could feel that the crowd was with us."

"We love Washington," added Steve, 28. "Sometimes when you go back to a place where you have won before it helps." The brothers collected $3,300 in prize money.

In the third set the two teams alter-sell team took the final four games, 6-

The Baird brothers dropped the first three games of the fourth set before another comeback, relinquishing only one more game in a 6-4 win. "We've played them (the Bairds) in three finals this year," said Russell. "And we won in the fifth set each time. This time they were just too good." The Bairds advanced to the finals by defeating Greg Brents and Rich Maier, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3. Graebner and Russell overpowered John Adams and John Mangan, 7-5, 6-

Yesterday's tournament was the final stop on the men's circuit before the national championships, March 24-25 i: Scarsdale, N.Y. looking shead to the national championships Chip Baird said, "We'd love to see a repeat performance.' The Baird brothers have played platform tennis for seven years and since they live so far apart (Boston and New York) they don't get much time to practice together. "We've been playing together long enough that we don't practice together," said Steve, "We don't need to, we usually play during the week with someone else."

Relaxation Wins for Fratianne

"Figure skating isn't everything that matters in life," Linda Fratianne's coach told her. "Relax, and the world title will come back."

It did. The 18-year-old brunette from Northridge, Calif., is undisputed queen once more after wowing the Viennese fans with her free skating in the Stadthalle Saturday night. She was well ahead of Anett Poetzsch, the East German who took the crown from her last year.

Fratianne's coach, Frank Carroll, explained how he eased the pressure after she lost her title at Ottawa a year ago.

"I tried to make her see there were other things in life besides skating," Carroll said. "It's not the end of the world when you lose a title. I wanted her to become more relaxed and more balanced, and she has done that."

It all came together again Saturday. Like any world champion should in Vienna, she just waltzed away with it. For the experts, her four-minute program included a triple toe loop and a triple Salchow, besides double Axels, a double flip and a double lutz. But for the 7,000 fans in the Stadthalle, who did not know the technical names, she was just a happy looking American girl in a red dress who skated dazzling figures to the music of "Carmen." "Hopefully I can get another triple loop in there before next year," Fratianne said. "I have been working on it, but it isn't quite consistent enough to include in the program yet. "It's wonderful to be world champion again, but I thought my program could have been a little faster. During the whole thing I was just trying to do everything accurately. "In the last years I have tried to relax and at the same time to express myself more in the moves. And I have been working hard on presentation and feeling the music."

Fratianne ended with 11 ordinals and 186.62 points. Poetzsch was second with 18 and 184.36, and Emi Watanabe of Japan third with 31 and

The U.S. team left Vienna with two, titles out of the four. Tai Babilonia and Randy Gardner of Los Angeles won the pairs. The only disappointed American skater was Charlie Tickner. of Littleton, Colo., who lost his men's title to Vladimir Kovalev of the So-
